Rockefeller Center looking north. 1964
New York, New York

Photo credit: ca. 1987
The Rockefeller Group

Rockefeller Center excavation site.
December, 1933
New York, New York

Photo credit: ca. 1987
The Rockefeller Group

Rockefeller Center site before construction,
ca. 1932
New York, New York

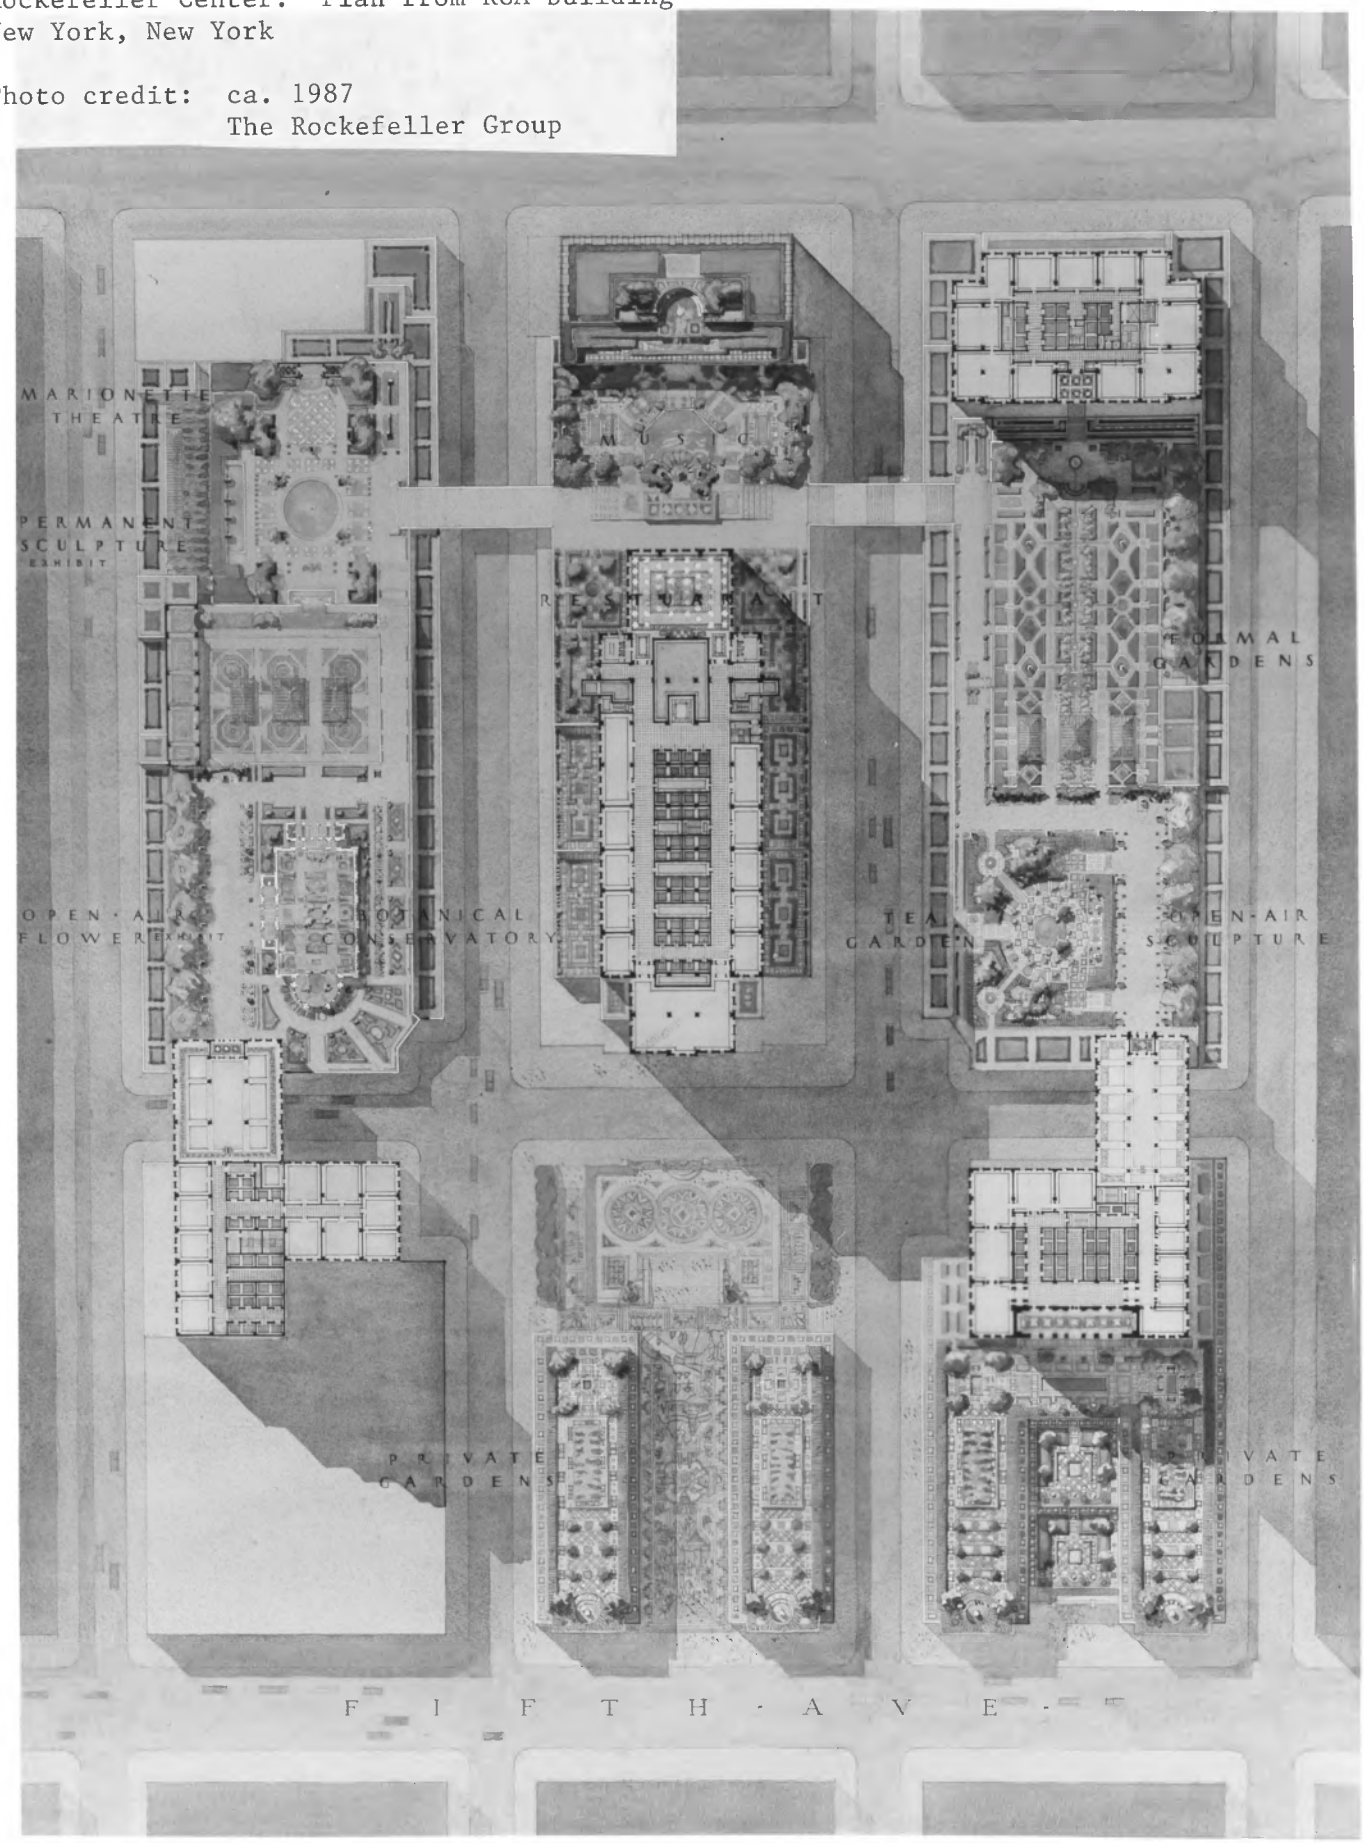
Photo credit: ca. 1987
The Rockefeller Group

Rockefeller Center looking west.
Architect's rendering
New York, New York

Photo credit: ca. 1987
The Rockefeller Group

Rockefeller Center. Plan from RCA building
New York, New York

Photo credit: ca. 1987
The Rockefeller Group



Rockefeller Center. "Spirit of Energy sending out Radio and Television." New York, New York

Photo credit: ca. The Rockefeller Group

Radio City Music Hall. "Rockettes"
1939
New York, New York

Photo credit: ca. The Rockefeller Group

Rockefeller Center. Sunken plaza skating rink.
New York, New York

Photo credit: ca. 1936
The Rockefeller Group

Radio City Music Hall. Interior
New York, New York

Photo credit: c. The Rockefeller Group

RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL ENTERTAINMENT CENTER'S AUDITORIUM

The most striking feature of the theatre auditorium is an immense proscenium arch, sixty feet in height. The semi-circular design is a stylized representation of a sunrise, and can be lighted in eight different colors. Shown here on each side of the Great Stage are some sets from "A New York Summer: A Magical Musical Celebration."